In Crowd

verywhere a person goes, they see people. Different types of folks with different taste and styles. Everyone is unique in their own way. People stand to the side looking into the great big bustling world wondering if they want to be in the crowd. It's like the first day of school; it's scary!

There are different ways to dress and many ways to express oneself. A persons peers may try to get them to join the crowd. But, in the end it all adds up being a little different. No matter where people go, whether it's school, work, or an outside interest, they always seem to meet new and interesting people. These people adventually wind up to be friends, loved ones, or even enemies.

So take a chance and have a great time in this fascinating world.

A Step Back In Time

t first glance, this book may appear the same as the ones in the past, with green and white spilled over the cover and the traditional "Vanguard" on the side. You will see, however, this book is filled with a few twists and turns to make it a little different.

With the first book published in 1964, high expectations and big dreams were expected. Some of those expectations and dreams have been met but some are still being fulfilled.

Many new teachers, students, and principals have passed through the halls in the past 28 years. With these people, a lifetime of memories and a huge set of goals have been recognized and met.

As you turn the pages, the memories of the old and the new have been collected to make this book a little different.

Holli Mooney and Stacey Bernard

tudent Life

et's forget about school for just a little while, and concentrate on the not-so-stressful school related events. The Prom, Homecoming, and Plays are just a few activities that students could take part in, or just sit back and enjoy. Of course, coming back to school, attending summer camps, and going on vacation occupied a lot of students' minds. Northwest student participation and spirit increased drastically over the year.

chool carried over into the summer for quite a few students, Art Madrid, Holli Mooney, and Michelle Ross attended Yearbook Camp at U of I for a week. There, they learned new skills, and ideas to help make this years' yearbook a success.

Susan Fiorentin, junior stated. "I attended George Parks, a drum major camp in Ohio. There I learned how to deal with people's attitude."

Several N.H.S. students attended Upward Bound, a six week long program that helps students to enrich their study and work habits. Tsana Harris, junior stated. "I had a great time at Upward Bound, it was tuff, but it was worth it."

Effy Popov and Tommy Gardner received honors while being on teen stuff at I.T.I, a say "No" to drugs camp.

Jeannine English, Raimeka Vaden, and Michael Upcroft were just three who attended the Black College Tour with the Indpls Alumna Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta.

These were just a few who took out a little of their time to broaden their future.

Summer, Summer, Summertime

ummertime was a relaxation period for most. Others used this time to see relatives, go on fun and exotic trips, and some even expanded their horizons.

Some students were asked about their summer and the responses varied

"I spent my summer relaxing in West L.A., California," exclaimed T.C. Keys, junior.

Maggie Hust, a junior, as well replied, "I played tennis and worked."

When I approached Jason Armstrong, a senior, and asked him what he did this summer he hesitated but then replied with a little pride, "I put on a ballet which was very vigorous."

I would like to end this by saying, "Live your summer to its fullest, because it doesn't last that long."

side from Prom, Homecoming was one of the greatest events for NHS. Homecoming was glamour, excitement and exhausting-all in one.

Homecoming started off bright and early October 11, 1991. Each class had its obligations for their hallway and float. Much effort and time was given to the projects.

Unfortunately, each class could not be the winner. Sophomores won the hallway display and the almighty seniors placed first in the float. This was just a portion of the excitement for Homecoming.

though, we lost to the Tech Titans, the Homecoming king/queen, prince/princess and courts kept the crowd going. The king was Anthony Kimmons, and the queen was Angel Burns. The prince was Kim Gage and the princess was Korea Miledge.

The fun did not stop there. The night ended with a bang with a Homecoming Dance. The dance was a great success, thanks to the Senior Class Council.

Because of the tolerable behavior, NHS will continue to have dances throughout the years.

The Very Great Grandson of Sherlock Holmes

he very great grandson of the master sleuth is trying to make it as a private eye, his mind filled with beautiful girls in dire straights who will be saved by his massive intellect. Unfortunately, great grandson Sherwood is not quite up to his illustrious ancestor Sherlock, a fact pointed out to him by the descendant of Doctor Watson. Thrust into a marvelous and complex murder mystery, young Sherwood tries desperately to rise to the occasion, but his brilliant solution is apparently no more than a humorous disaster. However, this great grandson still retains a bit of the classic brilliance attached to his name and, in an exciting and highly visual climax, he demonstrates the intent of the victim's last message and nails the culprit.

he Limited, The Express, Paul Harris, Man Alive, His Place, and Chess King topped the list of places where Northwest students went to shop. Guys are now shopping more than ever, and some even more than girls. This does not mean that our girls are slacking up. Never! This now just means that the girls have a little more competition. There were a lot of fashion statements made this year, reflecting personality and attitude. As one N.H.S student put it, "shop till ya drop.

Rally 'Round IPS

ince his appointment as superintendent of schools, Dr. Shirl E. Gilbert II has promised to make IPS a "world class" school system. He targeted what he thought were key aspects in the decline of the school system and has begun a campaign against the evils that are playing our youth. As he weeds out the negative, he tries to impose/inject positive back in. One attempt at this positive implant was the IPS Back-to-School Rally.

Northwest was one of the many IPS schools in attendance. The band, cheerleaders, silverettes, basemen, and Success without Drugs showed their school spirit by participating in the days activities. As Chuck Person, Jeff Modisett, Susan Bayh, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson gave their messages of encouragement, the NHS students looked attentively on. The members of the basemen: Ryan Keys, Patrick Wilburn, Jason Armstrong, Milton Bradberry II, and Stephen Spears, were frequently found"pumping up" the crowd with new energy and vigor. As one Manuel counselor noted, "I was almost asleep until those boys in the referee uniforms started dancin' and stuff." They put the "rally back in the rally."

There were however, mixed emotions regarding the effectiveness of the rally. Mrs. Scott, the school nurse, said"....I believe the Back to School Rally let the public know that we care about our kids and their education." While, when asked how he felt about the format of the program Josh Parmenter (12) said, "I listen to people lecture all week. I don't need it on weekends."

So while the Back To School Rally did receive some response from students and Faculty, only time will tell if it was in the long-run, a success.

long with the glitz and glamour of prom, there is always the anxiety of, what kind of dress should I buy . . . which tuxedo should I choose . . . what colors will we wear

... and of course the big question, how much money will I have to spend?

Jennifer Roach, senior, stated, "I bought some magazines to get an idea about what I wanted and then I looked around at a couple of malls and some bridal stores. I tried a bunch of dresses on and ended up buying something completely different from what I had been looking for at a bridal store."

"A few months before the prom I was at the mall just looking around for some sweaters and then I found the perfect prom dress. I brought it as soon as I saw it because it was exactly what I had been looking for, and was an excellent price," stated Joy Rowland, senior.

Tommy Gardner, senior, stated, "The amount I spent on the prom was reasonable and worth it."

"For some strange reason, I really wanted to wear white to the prom," stated Ju-

Our World

Today And Tomorrow

Below: A freed hostage takes his first breath of f his past year has brought about several changes around the world and close to home.

The topics of 1991-1992 have ranged from sexual harassment to the economic changes everywhere. All of these things have changed the way we think as well as the way we live our lives.

On a deeper note, the death of two great artists, Jim Henson of the Muppets and Michael Landon caused people to be more aware of the value of life. As for another learning the value of life, Magic Johnson was forced to retire from the NBA because he had been diagnosed as HIV positive.

Sex was also a strong issue this past year. The sexual harassment accusations towards Clearance Thomas put the political world on hold. Rape charges against William Kennedy Smith and Mike Tyson caused an uproar in the media.

On the brighter side, the Soviet Union finally grasped their independence. Many hostages, including Terry Anderson, held in captivity for seven years, finally won their freedom!

Closer to home, the Twins captured the World Series while the Redskins won the Superbowl.

The past year has taught us many things. But most of all, it has taught us the value of life.

eople Working For Success

here are several types of people that go to this school. Some are interested in sports some in academics, and some take both routes. No matter what route is taken, we all seem to end up at the same place; together.

School is the only place that brings students from all types of different backgrounds together everyday to learn form themselves as well as from each other. Students put their differences aside and accept the fact that education is the main priority.

Work For It

We all share a common bond despite our differences. We are all pushing towards that final step, a step that we will remember for the rest of our lives. We will achieve this step with people that we will remember for the rest of our lives.

See Ya ...

he seniors in this school have worked very hard to get where they are.

The Class of '92 knows where they are going and can hardly wait to get there.

Petita Gordan, senior, left us with a few encouraging words, "Stay in school, work hard, and don't let anyone knock you down, so you can finish school and feel this feeling."

It's not easy to become a senior.

"It was a hard struggle. You have to work hard, and have good attendance," stated Rochell White and Erika Gladney, seniors.

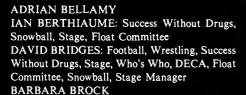

As said by Lakia Radcliff, senior, "Knowing that it's my last year, I strive to do good so I can graduate on time."

So to all of you underclassmen out there, don't just say, 'I'm a senior, so I don't have to do anything.' Work hard, and enjoy all of it!

The class of '95 brings meaning to the word freshmen. They are not immature little children roaming the halls looking awkward and confused. The freshmen are confident and sophisticated individuals with attitudes like no other freshmen class. When asked, "what is the best thing about being a freshman?" Freshman Adrienne Grimes said, "The best thing about being a freshman is that I get to graduate in '95."

Where can you find freshmen? Just about anywhere that supports human life. In the band, on the football field, in student council, and most importantly in class. "Band is fun and challenging. I'm glad to be at Northwest and I hope to be in band next year," said freshman Felicia Smith.

Freshmen year only lasts about nine months but, people can learn many valuable lessons. These lessons can be carried with them throughout their lives. The class of '95 is a new breed. They not only have the opportunity to learn from upperclassmen but, they also have given upperclassmen a chance to learn from them. Freshman Karren Shaffer said, "My brother is an upperclassman and they, his friends and him, treat me with respect even though I'm a freshman.

Change is a word essential to every high school student's vocabulary. The class of '94 sophomores are really getting a full understanding of what it means.

As sophomores, there is somewhat a changing of guards. The change from freshman to sophomores can be exciting.

Keeba Major, sophomore, said, "I don't get called freshman anymore and the incoming freshman boys are cute."

Sophomores have a new confidence in themselves. As any sophomore will tell you, the class of '94 is not quite like any other class.

"The sophomore class seems to be more mixed culturally and more alive than any other class. We have more ideas," said sophomore Kirin Pitamber. Change can be enriching or frustrating. But it is always challenging.

Herald 'Spock' Baxter said, "I think the class of '94 is more determined to succeed than any other classes of the past."

The class of '94 is definitely ready to face the challenges head on.

Keeping track of the present while working on the future, is all a part of junior life. With tomorrow on their side, yesterday seems very far away.

Junior Anne Duncan stated the feelings of many juniors, "This year is a lot different than the previous ones. We have to consider the future, rather than what is happening now."

Fears of life after high school haven't discouraged this group of people. They do, however, see the problems.

"My junior year is a difficult year for me. I have been put under a great deal of stress because of grades and choosing a college," said junior Craig Price.

Although the future is bright for the juniors, they are still very aware of their importance in making the school a better place for their peers. Junior Lori Dennison explained, "We have done a good job paving the way for the underclassmen. I can actually say that I might miss them when we graduate."

Different Faces, Same Goals

Cooperation Makes Things Happen

ome new and some veteran would describe the special faces that make this school go around.
Although education is the teachers main focus, another priority is to make the classroom more enjoyable. Seeing students as their equals is a very important part of that.

Mrs. Green makes this point by stating, "Working with students in the 'Focus on Freshman' program has been an exciting experience for me. Through field trips and many group activities, I have a much closer relationship with them."

The staff values the adult/student relationships that are shared. Mrs. Buczek, who works in the main office, shared her thoughts of the school and the students: "I really love working at NHS. It's such a wonderful school with our excellent students. They are the greatest!"

Cooperation from the students gives the teachers a much better outlook.

Mrs. Fields from the Business Education Department feels that, "NHS is really on the ball this year with the students, teachers, and staff working together. I am very optimistic that this is going to be the best year ever!"

From the teachers' point of view, things are definitely getting better and it shows in the classrooms, in the halls, and of course, in the students.

n the past it was traditional for boys to play sports and girls to cheer. Yet recently the tradition has changed. Boys and girls play sports and everyone cheers together.

Many of the athletes are involved in activities outside of sports but still manage to keep an average or above average grade level. Others not only have their school work but manage jobs as well.

"Sports help a person manage good grades because they know if they flunk, they are benched," said Dawn Hinshaw, freshman.

A lot of time and dedication goes into playing a sport, not to mention the hard work.

Sports Mania

"Before I got involved in sports I was not very ac in school, but now I'm active in everything," said so omore, Jean Anne Bufure.

Sports are there for students to get involved in. T help get spirit moving. So if you are not in a sp join one, or at least attend games and show sch pride.

new coach, new uniforms, and many new players, the 1991 tennis team had the spirit and motivation to make the season a successful one. With a 4-5 record, it was the most successful girls team in the history of the school.

Maggie Hust, seated number 2, said, "There was outstanding potential on our team. Our game became more versatile and we were much better than the year before."

he female pioneers on yet another successful season of America's pastime. In tradition of "Field of Dreams" and in legacy of greats like Babe Ruth, Satchel Paige, Hank Aaron, and Dwight Goodin, these ladies show that in this mans world there is definitely a place for a woman's touch. With a record of 7-10 during the regular season, and 0-2 in post season, the lady pioneers managed to tie with Tech and Howe for the title of IPSAC conference champs. Thus the team proved that not only are they beautiful, but athletic as well.

Sophomore Jennifer Boyd said, "This was my first year playing and I got my first broken bone. I did not play much, but I had fun."

Both players and coaches learned from their experiences.

As for the newcomer, Coach Miles, she said, "I had an exciting and memorable first year in softball... As a rookie coach, I have learned a lot from the other members of the coaching staff, and from that I have truly received the pleasure and experiences in what it takes to be a coach."

Leigh Richwine, sophomore, said, "For a first year coach she took us a long way."

These ladies selflessly donned our school colors 19 times and brought our school the championship.

The New Girl

Our new softball coach came to us after graduating from Northwest in 1983. When asked how it felt to come back and coach after graduating, Coach Miles responded, "I looked forward to my responsibilities and duties as a coach each and every day. I really enjoy coaching and being able to help an athlete in every way possible in a specific sport. i then know my duties and responsibilities as a coach have been fulfilled."

She also let it be known that she plans to continue to coach here. Coach Miles said, "I loved to coach and the students here are wonderful. It's a great pleasure to be a part of Northwest High School again!"

Welcome back Coach Miles, keep up the good work!

Getting Better

he 1991 track team was the best there has been so far, but hopefully not the best one yet. Coach Hausman's review, "The team continued on the road to improvement."

Many personal records were broken and many more set. In short, if it had not been for the circumstances that had many of the runners cut, it would have been an exceptional season.

This team had amazing spirit. Spirit stayed high, even during the long and boring event, the 3200 (2mi.). There was so much spirit that even when they lost, they were proud of those who did well and tried.

"Everyone should be proud of their efforts and accomplishments," said Coach Curry.

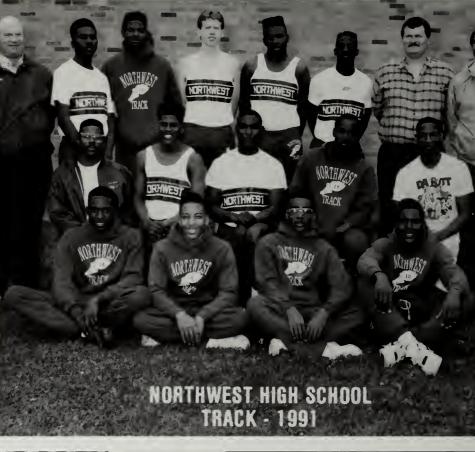

"As a spectator at a majority of the meets, I found the level of dedication to the sport amazing. The intensity of the runners was phenomenal. More people should attend," said Milton Bradberry II, senior.

Even with a small number of runners, the girls finished another successful season with record of two losses. They showed a exceptional amount of talent in events such as the 100, 320m relay, and shot put, as well as all the other events.

Lurna Murff, senior, a shot putter, and discus thrower said, "Overall the teams season went rather well."

Good cooperation was another factor the girls had with the coaches, as well as the other runners.

Raimeka Vaden, remarked, "I think the last years track team was a good learning experience for me, since I had missed a year and the coaches were new."

Boys Golf

ne golf team consisted of eight players last season. Although they did not win any matches, they still had a good season. They improved greatly from teams in the past.

No one on the team was a senior so if those players return next season, their record should go up. Many golfers were also first year players.

Andy Long, junior, said, "This was my first year and I did not play much. But I had fun!"

Mrs. Scaggs, coach, said, "I enjoyed coaching and was proud of the boys'. They had a good season."

Transportation was often not provided. Thanks to Mrs. Boylan, Ms. Scaggs, and Mr. and Mrs. Proffitt, the boys made it to all practices and matches on time.

"Not everyone owned their own golf clubs but we managed. Everyone lettered and had a pretty good time all in all," said Sean Wildman, junior.

he team was very competitive. It is hard to have a motivated team knowing we have only won one or two games. They did hang in on games against the good schools considering they cannot play four or five games a week without a lot of good pitching. They had the offense to back them up," said Coach Lawson.

Ater a shaky start under a new coach the young team had to learn how to play together.

Rob Burman, senior, said, "We had the team, we just did not have the team work."

They had spirit despite the lack of fans showing school pride. The team held a 9 record which was nothing to brag about it is an improvement over the ye past. They defeated Park Tudor and Broking Ripple, who later defeated them in stionals.

Paul Wiley, senior, said, "Even thou we only won two games last year, we shad fun. If we had an overall look of lyear, we were only shut-out twice the whyear. I look forward to next year becawe have a lot of seniors and experience underclassmen.

J.V. In Action

J.V. Baseball had a lot of young talent. There was a mixture of freshmen and sophomores. The sophomores, who all played last year, lead the team with their experience. There was also a lot of freshmen talent. The outstanding freshmen were Mike Smith, Lee Coleman, Paul Gardner, Jason Hudelson, and Carlos Dillon. The sophomore leadership, lead by Kevin Shaffer, helped the team to six victories. The future of baseball at NHS is showing light. Good job on a season well done!

Kevin Shaffer, junior, said "The J.V. baseball team's season went good. We managed to improve a lot by the end of the season.

Down But Not Out

Football

he 1991 football team strived for excellence. Although they did not reach their expectations, they did improve over years past.

With a close win over Arlington, Northwest made their first victory of the year. Clark Thompson made the winning touchdown with only 11 seconds left in the game to put the score at 13-12. This victory was also significant because it snapped a three season losing streak by the varsity squad. This game would also prove to be the pinnacle of the season becoming the teams only victory.

According to Chris Condre, "Even though we lost quite a few games, we never By Milton Bradberry quit fighting."

William Grady voiced his opinion "Football at NHS is the best. We had very good team. Besides little let downs times, it is the best team I've ever play for. We had fun."

The final question is: "Where do they from here?"

Tim Fisher said, "The team will gro with coaches such as Sedam, Hughe Moore, and Perry. They are the harde working coaches."

With the strong foundation of the coac ing staff to build upon, we are sure to s only good things from the pioneers in t future.

oys tennis had under went a lot of changes but still remained competitive. They have changed in three perspectives. The first change was a new coach.

Coach Mattingly is the third coach in the past four years. The next change has been in the number one singles spot. There has been three different people in the past and Josh Parmenter was the number one singles spot.

The most important change was their record. The tennis team had a wining record! The tennis team was 6-5 without the loss to Speedway in the sectionals. They placed fourth in city tournament and third in the IPSAC tournament.

Josh Parmenter, senior, stated, "This year I got to play tennis with one of the best teams I have ever been on. Maybe we did not win any tournaments or even be Ben Davis, but we showed everybody th Northwest is a big threat in Indianapo tennis. Even the yeagers played well."

Coach Mattingly did a very good job prepare the team with helpful hints a drills.

"As a freshman, playing a varsity spo surprised me. I enjoyed playing tennis a this year. Playing under the coaching of perience of Coach Mattingly had no bori moments. I look forward to playing aga next year," stated number 3, Ronn McClure.

800 Meters and Runnin

The Big Change

t is a shame that our runners are only challenged to a distance of 800 meters in Junior High School. Then they came to high school and had to do more training than everyone else, because they were not physically ready for a sport like cross country," said cross country coach, Jim Hausman, at the sports banquet.

The team finished a super year leaving behind a great team to return next year. Four of the six will be returning next year and the other two moving on to meet their future after high school.

Coach Grubb, of the girls team, said,

"The girls did well. I won't be losing a girls, so I look forward to next year."

All of the girls feel that they worked ha and can not wait to run cross country no year.

Everyone would like to give thanks to t parents who came and supported the tea Both teams would like to thank the coach for all their help.

ast years swim champs have returned and they are making a big splash. The girls may have had trouble in the beginning, but our faithful swimmers are showing their colors.

When the season first began the team seemed to lack hope. The more the team practiced the worst they felt. As time went on and the first meet came, the swimmers managed to set their hopes high and carry on a great tradition.

"I have learned a lot in the past two years. This year's team is not as enthusiastic as the teams in the past, but they seem to care about what they are trying to do," said sophomore, Tiffany Hitchcock.

Although the swim team has had a hard battle, they are determined to pull through and make it to the finish line. Their no coach, Coach Upcroft came in late a could not change them all at once, but within and Coach Black working together your see the improvement.

Girls Golf and Boys Swimming

ith an exceptional improvement from years past, girls golf has teed off a great season. Many people look at golf as hitting a ball away from you, then hitting it away from you again. These girls are out to change their image.

Junior, Hope Gamble, stated, "Ms. Scaggs is the best coach in the world! She taught me a lot about golf. I enjoyed playing and will play more throughout my years."

Ms. Scaggs really was an excellent coach. She showed the girls to ignore the outside comments and try their hardest at what they do. At the Awards Banquet Ms. Scaggs showed her appreciation to the girls. She let it be known she was proud of them and their season.

"Overall we did good. We had our first victory out of two years and we had lots of fun," said, Maggie Hust, junior.

The girls golf team may not seem like much, but at least they won against more than Arlington. It really shows that every sport is important to our school, no matter how big and bold the title.

Boys Survive Long Season In Water

he boys swim team this year was not exactly what people had expected. Approximately 15 guys went out for the team to begin with but only eight stuck with it.

Coach Black was more demanding in what he expected from them and let it be known at the first meeting.

After various guys had dropped off the team, Coach Black said, "It does not bother me. I can have a team of only one swimmer as long as he gives his best."

The exercises were a new improvement to the already tough practices. However, if you want to do good, you have to work hard at it. Hard work and dedication has got me far on the swim team," stated three year swimmer, Andy Long, junior.

Andy Goodwin, junior, said, "We are not known for are terrific sports program, but swimming is a very hard sport. I think we are doing are best which is better than last years team, so I'm very satisfied!"

Two of the eight swimmers were injured but still attended all practices and did what they could.

Brian Hudgins, junior, said, "I was injured doing the back stroke. After attending therapy for three weeks, I attended our first swim meet and did better than I ever expected."

This team may not have had many guys or victories, But despite all this, they guys did not give up. They showed real pride in what they did!

he catch word in Northwest basketball this past year had to be progress. Though the teams may not have won as many games as they might have liked, they have grown a lot over the course of the season.

With the loss of three players, the varsity team may have, started off a little slow but with the addition of four underclassman, things started to look up.

"I like playing with older people and trying to get may game together for years to come," said freshman varsity player, Leland Perry.

The junior varsity team has had a real learning experience this past year. The lesson was the fundamentals of basketball. They have put what they have learned to work for them on the court.

J.V. player Paul Gardner said, "Basically I learned how to play as a team, not as an individual. I also learned how to shoot jump shots better and to play my hardest."

The freshman team was definitely refreshing, having made a point to work hard that paid off.

Coach Mattingly said, "At this time, with the people we have, we are playing well and I'm happy."

Thanks to the hard work of both the coaches and the players, Northwest basketball had a lot to look forward to. As for the rest of us, a supportive crowd never hurts.

"A good home crowd always had a positive affect on players and encouraged them to do better," said Coach Curry.

"What makes a good basketball player is a good role player. You do whatever it takes to succeed," expressed Reggie Whitehead.

Wrestling

o be a good wrestler one must have dedication, determination, and desire. Because somewhere, someone is practicing and when you meet him in head to head competition, he'll beat you.

Fortunately our wrestlers did practice and was well prepared for the competition. Several wrestlers have obtained an excellent record, along with helping the team gain their 14-12 dual meet record.

"The NHS wrestling team is one of the only teams at NHS that has maintained a winning record for ten years." said Chris Condre, senior.

The wrestlers have been supported by many parents, students, and facility. Each wrestler has a wrestlerette, she makes a scrapbook for her wrestler and does her best to support the wrestling team.

Wrestling takes a lot of your time and a big commitment. Tommy Gardner said it best;

"Wrestling is both physically and mentally demanding on a person."

The wrestling team lost to Pike for the IHSAA Sectional title by one point this year. However several wrestlers did go on to regionals. These wrestlers are: Joe Campbell, Tommy Gardner, Art Madrid, Kujuan Reed, Craig Ball, Chris Condre, Jason Armstrong, Anthony Vaughn, and George Harlen.

Kujuan Reed, junior, said, "Two men enter and only one man leaves."

The attitudes of the wrestlers show their great dedication, desire, and determination to the sport. As their record shows, the wrestling team did their best to keep the winning tradition alive at NHS.

Chris Condre (SR.) has accumulated the most wins going into sectionals for NHS. He is not too concerned about the present, he is more concerned with his future; in wrestling, at IUPUI, and in racing. While wrestling for the last nine years, he has accumulated countless awards.

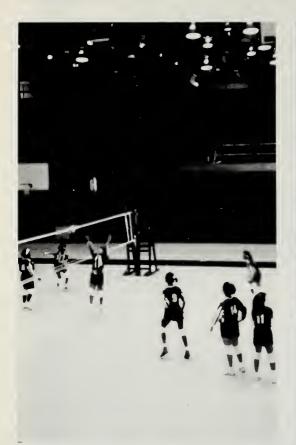

"The thing that I like most about wrestling is that when you lose their is no one to blame but yourself, but when you win you get all the glory," said Chris Condre.

Wrestling is an individual sport which pays according to what you put in it and Chris is way ahead.

verall, I think the season was O.K. but not as successful as it should have been. We had a couple of outstanding players. For the most part, everyone had a good attitude," said senior Nikki Blane.

The quote itself sums up the season for Bea's girls. They had a pretty impressive year but not as good as they wanted to be. The girls had high expectations. They strove for IPSAC champs and to have a good showing in sectionals. It is hard to have a good showing against Brebeuf. But despite the competition, the volleyball team gave all they had. About the outstanding talent, well, how should I say it? The team had two outstanding captains in Jeannine English and Nikki Blane and help from Rameka Vaden and Company.

"As one of the two captains of the tear I think that we had an average season. Whave a lot of graduating seniors, and I hop that has little effect on next years performance of the team," mentioned senior Jeanine English, who was an All-City honorable mention.

The team will have talent coming bac Kalynn Vazquez, Heather Starks, Kord Milledge, Katrina Mason, and Chris McMullen will be returning next year for another successful season.

On A Mission

anked second in IPSAC.
The team was blessed with the mission to improve," said Coach Lawson about his girls.

Even when it was hard keeping a lineup consistent, Coach Miles and the team still were able to keep there honor and steal a second place from Broad Ripple. Although they were defeated by the Howe Hornets, they played proudly and were consistent this year.

"With a record of 6-12, before sectionals, this team had good times and bad, but seemed to have worked out problems," says Jolanda Bailey, junior and team capt.

"The season was fun," said Latresa King, "but the coaches meant business."

They knew there was room for improvement and were determined to let everyone else know it. Everyone felt that Jolonda Baley, was a leader and star player.

Although everyone on the team was a star, she played a very important part.

The team awarded her as she was ranked third in city for rebounds.

"Four seniors left us but, the team will be playing and winning in the future," said Coach Lawson.

Coaches and Trainers

oaches and trainers have a vital role in the success of a team and the health of it's players. They are responsible for the organization of practices and are the foundation upon which the team builds. Without them most would find themselves lost and let down.

The general job of a trainer is to set up a program that the athletes will use for conditioning and strength. A football trainer, for example may want his athletes to focus on strength while a cross-country trainer may want to build up the runners cardiovascular system first and maybe strengthen the lower body. Trainers work closely with their athletes to insure they are working out the proper muscle groups and not hurting themselves.

Coaches provide leadership both in and out of the game. During the week they work hard with their players to perfect plays and correct mistakes being made. Coaches during these sessions assume the mantle of omnipotent as their players generally cannot question whether or not their coach knows what he is saying. On the court or field the coach coordinated plays and makes adjustments as necessary in order for their team to be victorious. Coaches must therefore not only be knowledgeable in their sport, but they must also have the wills and instincts to make the split second decisions that decide a game.

With the level of importance that coaches and trainers have it is safe to say that in this land where athletes grow on trees, coaches and trainers are the life-giving sunshine.

In Action

The subject of managers for high school athletic teams is surprisingly a hot issue. Managers have been targeted and labelled as an unnecessary commodity for their respective sports. It has even been suggested that they should be eliminated altogether and the athletes could assume their responsibilities. That would surely be a sad day.

Managers are selfless, thoughtful individuals who sacrifice their time for their school. Not only are they not a liability to whatever team they manage, but they are truly a great asset to those wrestlers, football players, basketball players, etc... The jobs that they do help the teams concentrate on the game more so then the trivial distractions that may come up.

So let's give these people their "props" and stop bashing the efforts they put forth for the benefit of everyone.

More Than Just A Show

hat season begins with tryouts in March, lasts through track season, past football season, and totally eclipses basketball season as it ends in March, just so it can begin again two weeks later? Stumper? Well, cheerleading is the answer!

Cheerleading and Basemen play one of the most active roles in and for Northwest High School. They hold their practices under their own supervision many times and rely on their own creativity and motivation to come up with original, energetic, and exciting routines, cheers, and structures. But not only are the cheerleaders and basemen a team, they function as a family as well. They generally refer to each other as sisters and brothers. When one cries, they all are saddened, likewise, they share their joy. They have truly transcended conventional standards of teamwork and society's general view of their behavior. For instance, it is not uncommon to see a cheerleader and a baseman walking down the hall arm in arm. While some would gossip and rumors would fly, if you asked them, they would probably just respond, "We're friends!" Baseman co-captain, Patrick Wilburn, said it best when he responded to the question 'how can you hold all those girls and not get distracted?'

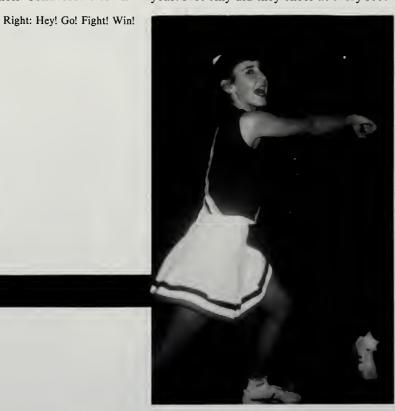

He said, "When I first started being a baseman, it was hard not to think about what area I was about to grab or whatever. But you gotta remember something if you're holding about 130 pounds above your head with one arm: Which are you going to think about? 1) What you are holding or 2) how you are going to keep it from falling on your head? Besides, they are like my sister."

So what does a cheerleader do? You would probably be shocked if you realized how much our cheerleading squad did this year. Not only did they cheer at every football and basketball game, they practic regularly, went to workshops, and part ipated in several activities with the North west chapter of Success With Out Dru The cheerleaders and basemen were force to raise their own money for uniforms a other needs by working at the drag rac and selling balloons. but despite all th they still are not recognized as a sport. T varsity squad of Jeannine English (C Captain), Effy Popov (CoCaptain), Lor Murff, Diana Popov, and Tshana Harr the J.V. squad of Korea Milledge, Ti Griffen, Kisha Wade, and Sheena Thom son, and even the Freshman squad suffer injury, disappointment, victory and defe with no athletic ties whatsoever. As Jea nine English put it, "I feel that cheerlea ers are not given enough credit. For or cheering is not only a sport, it is a sport that lasts all year . . . Cheering takes a of hard work and practice, especially if y are like us, without a coach or sponsor! V are the only group that has to spend about $200-$300 to go to camp, have somethi to wear there, and our shoes ... To be cheerleader in the state of Indiana, ye must have a "C" average, in other word no "F's" whatsoever. This is a standa that is, by the way, more stern than th of the other athletes."

Is there a solution to the problem? Soo er or later I'm sure people will exce cheerleading as a sport. Until then, M English said it best, "... we will not ! that get to us. Hopefully, someday peor will realize how important cheering is, as that we accomplish a lot for our team Until then, we have to be considered a "activity" ... and pretend that we agr with the situations which we are under.

They get a chance to perform in a wide variety of activities from tasting stranger looking foods than what the cafeteria fixes to attending Snowball in a fight against drugs.

"The clubs are fun. They give us a chance to go places and meet new people," expressed Senior Kristeen Jones.

The different clubs offered are: Spanish, French, Silverettes, Wrestlerettes, Snowball, Academic Letterman's Club, Bowling, and National Honor Society.

Anytime But Schooltime

Through Spanish and French clubs you can go to fortivals in celebration of the seasons. Silverettes a Wrestlerettes help cheer on our teams. Snowbet teaches our students to fight drugs, and Bowling help relaxation skills.

ome of the students from our school have experienced a new outlook on life. These students were given a chance to visit another country for nine days and taste a new life.

Six students from French club took an exciting expedition to France over the summer. They went to different French restaurants and visited the Eiffel Tower. They all had the time of their lives.

"French club is a learning experience, but we have fun at the same time," expressed junior, Willie Thorpe.

Although the people back home may not have had the same opportunity, they seemed to have made up for it. They have visited French restaurants, made fondue, and had French boums (otherwise known as parties).

"The interest in French club has been increasing steadily. The more people involved, the more activities we were able to have," said senior, Joy Rowland.

"It is fun and enjoyable to work with students in French activities outside the classroom," said Mrs. Hofts, sponsor.

owling is an athletic endeavor for all ages. Everyone that bowled for the bowling team enjoyed it, even if they were not the most athletic. Not everyone that bowled achieved the highest score, but everyone enjoyed the fun of bowling with their friends.

"Bowling was an exciting sport and was a lot more competitive this year. Everyone who bowled this year tried their hardest and were willing to better themselves in their skills. The best thing about bowling was that you were with your friends and everyone was happy," stated Judy Boyles, junior.

"My first year of bowling was a great experience. It gave all of us that bowled time to achieve better bowling skills and time to have fun while being with our friends," expressed Leo Denninson, freshman.

Five teams participated in bowling this year. All the teams met at Eagle Bowl every Monday and bowled three games.

"Being the sponsor of the bowling league is a great experience. All of the students are fun to be with which makes my job very easy," said Mrs. Green, sponsor.

"Snowball brings 200 teenagers from rival schools together, plus schools that do not know one another. They become a family that they will never part from. It becomes the most unforgettable weekend of your life," said Rob Burman, Senior.

During the Snowball weekend, participants learn how to start prevention programs in our schools and communities. Teens from many different schools meet to share ideas, to learn from each other and to have fun.

Snowball has many large group sessio that provide information on a wide range of topics such as . . .

or the second time in fourteen years, the Indianapolis Police Department searched I.P.S. schools for drugs.

This year when I.P.S. did the locker search they found no traces of drugs or alcohol. They did, however, open two lockers but only found traces from the past.

Not everyone may agree with the searching procedure but if we keep our record clean, we may not have the problem for very long.

"I feel that it is an invasion of my privacy. I feel that we are being discriminated against as teenagers and stereotyped," said Clark Tompson, senior.

"I agree with the searching of the lockers. Drugs are not needed in our school and I think they should keep the procedure going," said Jessie Contos, freshman.

People feel that I.P.S. schools have a lot of problems with drugs and alcohol. Parents sometimes feel that the I.P.S. school system is harmful to send their children to.

"I believe the rights of the majority to a safe school atmosphere will be protected by this new procedure," said Kael Seldner, Spanish teacher.

"The work has been hard, but it has been worth it. This award will help a lot in the future with getting into a good college," said Christine Logan, senior.

The academic award will help these students get where they are going with their life after high school. It really looks good on job and college applications.

enior Council is striving to make themselves remembered forever. They have had to do a little extra work, but it seemed to pay off. What they did may seem small, but it opened doors for the future.

"This was my third year as Senior class sponsor. Each year I've learned more and hopefully gotten better. I enjoyed working with the seniors and got to know them better by being their sponsor. Without the senior class officers' energetic, creative willingness to work, I couldn't get the job done," expressed Mrs. Green, sponsor.

Some special students did some persuasive speaking and convinced Mr. Coleman to allow things to be different. For the first time in four years there was dance held at school. The last dance had problems with fights and guns, but things went much better with a little extra attention.

"Effy, Jason, Kamara, Jeannine, and myself worked really hard to make our senior year a success, but we couldn't have done it without Mrs. Green," said Keri Collier, senior.

Senior Council definitely had motivation. They helped us prove that though things were once bad at the school, we have stepped up and improved our image.

"It is a great group of students, everybody is active and getting a lot done. We have a lot of new students and ideas it is really alive," remarked Ryan Keys, senior.

It takes a lot of hard work and cooperation to plan the interesting events. Student council has to get all the students to participate and cooperate in activities.

"Striving for production is much more healthier than dwelling on the negative people and activities we encounter daily," said Ms. Bingham, sponsor.

"Student council is an activity that shows what students can do with leadership and how well they get along with others," added Angie Kirk, sophomore.

he band has a chance of becoming a lot better than before. Hopefully they will take advantage of this chance," said Dallas Gill, junior.

The band has come a long way. In fact, they have been involved in many exciting events. In April of 1991, the concert band received a 2nd place rating at the State Concert Band Contest. Hopefully, they will return this coming year and receive a 1st. The band has also participated in many parades this year.

Channel 8 news said, "Northwest was the best band at the St. Patrick's Day parade."

With the new band director, Mr. Davis, the band has worked extra hard to achieve the goals set for the year.

"The band got a good start on its left foot, and are constantly striving to improve the quality of our performances," said the Director, Mr. Davis.

The band has endured many changes during the past few years. Despite that factor, they are continuing in the tradition of striving for excellence.

Silverettes

Silverettes are usually known as the girls out on the football field twirling flags and wearing short skirts. Behind the flags and skirts, however, were girls who put in a lot of time and effort.

Mitzi Royer, junior, stated, "It is not really that hard, but it does take a lot of time and effort.

The Silverettes marched and waved their flags at home football and basketball games. They also marched in some parades to help show their school spirit.

"The Silverettes are the best," said freshman, Lindsay Williams.

Many people thought of the band and Silverettes as two different groups.

Mr. Davis, the new band director, said, "Silverettes are part of the band and they are working together to improve the quality of performance at home football and basketball games."

ensations is a lot of fun; we have a lot of fun with our music and choreography," said Mitzi Royer, junior.

From singing at school concerts to performing in Columbus, Ohio for the Christopher Columbus 500 Year Anniversary Celebration, the music choirs are very busy this year entertaining. All of the choir members help earn money for these trips by helping in fund raising activities, performances, and being involved in the Spring Art's Festival. The money earned will help the Sensations go to Columbus, Ohio and to Cedar Point.

"I enjoy the singing and Mr. Newman's unorthodox teaching style," said Thomas Walkins, junior.

Mr. Newman has been an asset to the music department this year. As well as being the choral director, he has obtained the position of department head.

"There is always much to do, much to learn, much to accomplish, and the choral groups of this school are a big part of our school's successes," said Mr. Newman, choral director and department head.

Orchestra

The Orchestra is a very important part of the music department. They frequently displayed their talents at school programs and around the city. For their annual X-mas tour, the orchestra went to some local junior high schools and to Indiana National Bank (downtown) to perform. Their tour was a great success.

"The Orchestra is looking to increase their numbers and build the quality of the program," said Mrs. Toney, previous Orchestra director.

The Orchestra has many fine and talented players. Considering the ever constant changes of their program, the dedicated students have still attempted to make the Orchestra the best it can be.

Determination

O.T. C stands for Reserve Officer Training Corp. That is exactly what Sgt. Boyer's aim was during the 1991-92 school year, to train young men and women for future military careers. The department has several activities planned to fulfill this aim.

Although, the number of students in the program are few, the department is growing. Sgt. Boyer said, "Enrollment is up this year by two percent. I have a motivated group of kids this year."

Motivated seems to be the word to best describe the students this year. Many of them plan to pursue military related or reers after high school.

"The training they have received w greatly contribute to their future," said S Boyer.

Carlos Owens, sophomore, sa "R.O.T.C will prepare me for a career the military. I have learned to respect r peers, even the seniors have respect for the underclassman."

The R.O.T.C department is continuing in the tradition of excellence by striving prepare young men and women to be leaders in the future.

rom building bridges to repairing cars, the shop classes were busy building a better future for themselves. Construction Planning was a one period class with the purpose of studying different styles of construction. The students studied the technology of changing the Earth's formation to fit the needs and wants of society.

Eric Moore, Junior, said, "This construction class will better my future in the architectural field."

Auto mechanics was a two and a half period course that has been offered for four years. Students studied different styles of cars and how they were built. Students learned about engine parts, how to change tires and how to build a transmission.

"Hands on training, (from auto mechanics class) is very valuable to me at this time," said David Bridges, Senior.

"I plan to use the skills obtained in class in the future. Learning the basic things about an automobile can save me a lot of cash," said Antoine Boyer, Sophomore.

"The set was beautiful! It looked as though it was designed by a professional," said Mrs. Hofts, french teacher.

"I was impressed with the performances of the students as well as the set," said Mrs. Marnouk, student teacher.

Special Education

It's Not Different

uring our lifetime, we come in contact with different kinds of people. People differ in their attitudes, beliefs, and goals.

Of course, there are many other ways in which people are different, but the fact that we live in an integrated society reminds us of the diversity that exists in America. Our school represents a part of the melting pot of our great nation. No person is special, but we are all different. The special education department is not special, it is a little different. The students enrolled in the department have learning disabilities, and some have physical disabilities. Despite this factor, many of the students work hard to achieve.

"The students are rewarding. Even their small successes are rewarding," said Mrs. Donaldson, special education teacher.

Mrs. Donaldson and Mrs. Montgomery and their staff work hard to prepare their seniors for life after high school. Many students work in a community-based work program. The students work non-pay jobs. Some students work at Krogers, T.J. Max, and Big Lots. They are, also, taught skills like how to obtain a job, how to ride the Metro, how to count money, and how to use a calculator. Learning basic skills will make their lives a little easier.

The special education students are not special, they are a little different. Chinese and Japanese are different. Birds and bees are different. In the same way, the special education students are different, but one thing is certain we all contributed to the tradition of academic excellence during the 1991-92 academic year.

dvanced placement is a special program offered to academically gifted juniors.

They are required to take A.P. English and history. Mr. Combs, English teacher, said, "It is the goal of the advanced placement program to prepare academically bright students for college."

Some of the highlights of the program are the trip to New Harmony, Indiana; walking tour of downtown Indianapolis, chinese restaurant field trip; visit to De-Pauw University; visit to Butler University; and the trip to Chicago.

The 1991-92 A.P. senior class was a group of eighteen highly motivated students who have big plans for the future. The future plans range from being a research engineer to being an English professor.

COE

TAKING CARE OF BUSINESS

OE stands for Cooperative Office Education. It is a class for seniors to prepare them for the business world. These seniors must be interested in office occupations and complete Typing 1 and 2.

"It was an opportunity to go out and work in the work force," says Tracey Brewer, COE student.

COE students have an advantage because they are serious who are ready for the business world. COE offers them the wonderful opportunity to be introduced to the work force through first hand experience.

COE can be a gratifying experience for both the students and the teachers.

"It is always rewarding to see students who are retained for full-time employment or asked to return for help during the summer months," says Mrs. Fields, COE teacher.

DECA

ECA is a marketing education program created to give students interested in marketing an extra edge in the business world if they decide to pursue a marketing career.

DECA is a three part program which involves four semesters in the classroom, a membership in the DECA youth organization, and four semesters of on-the-job training.

The DECA program teaches students about the world of business and it helps them make career decisions.

"I feel that the program has inspired many students to go on to higher education," said Mr. Sparks, DECA director.

DECA can be an eye opening experience for everyone that is involved. It can be an opportunity for exploration into different careers and it can open doors to the future.

Cultures

and Nationalities

orthwest High School offers a wide variety of races and cultures from black to white, Mexican to Italian, Vietnamese to Korean, Chinese to Japanese, African to Jamaican, and the list could go on. This diversity has proven to be an advantage to most. Becoming aware of other cultures and races was a learning experience that some students considered very enjoyable.

"It was hard for me to make a transition coming from China, but it was worth it because of my future." Stated Trink Khan. "I've been here for three years and I live the freedom."

A round of applause and a pat on the back should be given to Northwests' immigrant students. These pioneers tackled the unfamiliarity of moving to another country, speaking another language, and starting a new school.

"I do not look at people as one color or another, they're just people." Stated Chris Dean. "I feel sorry for people who are not given the chance to meet people of other cultures and experience the 'real world'".

Kat-Our little gopher! You're the best. Love, Holli

Michelle,

Well here we are SENIORS. Even though we could never find a good time to go out we still had lots of fun when we did! Remember my house, all of those times, and at Noble Romans? Thanks for being there for me when I needed someone to talk to and I hope I'll do the same for you! You're a great friend and don't let anyone tell you different!

K.I.T. Love, Z. Senousy

Amy Joe and Baby-

Keep up that attitude! Thanks for listening!

Your daughter's Godmother

Eddie,

You are just so NEAT! Thanks for everything (except the nape stuff).

Love, Eff(ie)

Diana #1 Diver,

Thanks for all the encouragement and counting. Stick with it next year, I am!

Love ya, Kathy

Holli:

I'm gonna miss you next year. If you ever forget give me a call. I'll know where it is.

Love, Kathy

Little 500er,

Tiffany, Tina, Heather, and Michelle,

This was definitely my best b-day ever Remember, if you ever need anything ju call CRAZY JOE. I am the only one the managed to hang on to who I was with of the trip, too bad, you all know who I war

I love you,

Diana

P.S. Susan, you should have stayed!

Denise,

You gave me happiness you gave me love

You gave me something to lift me up above

You gave me lots with your silky brown hair
And your autumn brown eyes that always seemed to care.

You gave me something to cherish and hold You gave me your heart to unfold

You gave me something to love and adore
You gave me your touch and much, much, more.

Jeff

Mrs. Seldner,
Thanks for all the help and support.

Love ya all!

To the Class of 92,

As we began we were divided, but as we leave we are one Though our happiness and tears are over our time has just begun.

Through our athletics, activities, personalities, and interests a light we surely shed

We took the power into our hand and NHS we led.

We are doubted by many, and laughed at by most but what they think doesn't matter because we will always be close. Who knows what the future holds for the class of 92, The birth of a teacher or doctor, and just maybe the next president too. The dreaded hand of "death" will pluck the life of a few But you will never be forgotten

Jeannine English

Because you were in the family of 1992.

Cassie and Anne,

I just wanted to thank you for helping me through the tough times this year making me realize some things, for being honest. And being two of the most special friends I'll ever have!

April

Heather,

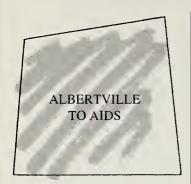

Do you know who you look like? NOT!)

Love your big sis,

A Little Different

t seems as if your high school years are what stand out most in one's long line of memories, that have made this past year a little different.

For some, the close of the 1992 school year means another year closer to graduation. For others, it signifies the start of a greater future with new hopes and dreams. Dreams that could have never have taken place without the years spent preparing for the real world in a place where dreams have come true.

As you close this book, remember the Friday night football games spent with your friends, the agonizing over the upcoming test, the fighting over that little locker space, and of course, the times you wished that it would all never end. for all those that have to leave their high school years behind, we wish the best of luck!
